

Senior Consultant

Mark Murphy

Dallas, Texas

Mark has decades of training and consulting expertise in productivity, interpersonal/leadership skills, project management, and diversity, equity and inclusion. He has traveled the world extensively and lived for several years in both Europe and South America. He has traveled to five continents for business and pleasure and works with clients in Europe, South America, Asia, and the Middle East.

Mark is a senior consultant with FranklinCovey and has spent more than 30 years creating and customizing solutions for clients around the world. He can quickly connect with clients, understand their needs, and effectively integrate those needs into his facilitation, helping clients reach customized solutions that produce results. He works with clients to develop and create strategies that are aligned with the client's mission and vision to help drive large scale behavior change all the way to the frontline. Mark is phenomenal at developing leaders and individual contributors so organizations can meet their goals and reach new levels of effectiveness. Mark grew up in Colorado but has called Dallas home since 1994.

Highlights

Co-author of the best-selling book A Leader's Guide To Unconscious Bias published by Simon & Schuster.

Wrote white paper: "Project Diversity: Disaster or Dynamic" for PMI Project Management Global Conference

Has facilitated content on four different continents.

Ran a marathon

Lived in two foreign countries; Germany and Argentina

Education & Certifications

- B.S. Marketing, Minors in Accounting, Economics and Spanish
- Master of Organizational Development and Industrial Psychology

What learners say about Mark...

"Mark was an excellent, vulnerable, engaging, and transparent facilitator"

"Mark was AWESOME! Very engaging, created a comfortable environment to share openly"