Since 1987, Jeff Carney has been a leadership consultant, facilitator, and long-time advocate for personal transformation through principle-centered leadership. As a Senior Consultant at FranklinCovey, Jeff played a pivotal role in adapting and delivering The 7 Habits on the Inside, a specialized version of Stephen R. Covey's iconic framework designed for incarcerated individuals. With a deep commitment to human potential, Jeff brought the 7 Habits to life in correctional facilities across the country, helping thousands of inmates reclaim their agency, develop life skills, and prepare for meaningful reintegration into society. Over 50,000 inmates and thousands of staff have participated in the program.

Known for his exceptional ability to build trust and connection, Jeff worked closely with prison administrators, facilitators, and participants to make the program relevant, practical, and deeply impactful. He has trained and mentored numerous correctional educators and facilitators, ensuring the sustainability and reach of the program beyond his direct involvement. Jeff's work stands as a testament to the power of principles-based leadership to change lives in even the most challenging environments, and his legacy continues through the lasting impact of The 7 Habits on the Inside in the corrections community.

Jeff has worked in multiple industries some of which include telecommunications, gas and oil, healthcare, biotechnology, retail, real estate, and aerospace, chain restaurants, tax and accounting, and local, state and federal government. He has partnered and consulted leaders at every level of leadership from front line supervisors to executive teams.

What learners say about Jeff...

Engaging, authentic, high energy and positive. Jeff makes it fun, real, and impactful. How he memorizes everyone's names even in a large group blew us away. It showed he cared about each individual and kept us all engaged.
