

Senior Consultant & AI Advisor

Jennifer Colosimo

Golden, Colorado

Jennifer Colosimo is a multi-functional senior executive with 35 years of experience in building effective teams and organizations that achieve results through strategy execution including go-to-market, digital, operational, and leadership/culture transformation that leads to profitable growth. As the former Enterprise President at FranklinCovey, she led strategy, consulting and coaching services, employee and customer experience, and the commercial organization in the US, six international direct offices, and in partnership with 60 global licensees. Jennifer has consulting experience across multiple industries including professional services, healthcare, technology, and manufacturing.

Jennifer is the co-author of the book Strikingly Different Selling and co-authored the book Great Work, Great Career with renowned leadership expert Stephen R. Covey. She has been published in Chief Executive, Forbes, and Training Industry magazines and serves on the governance and audit and finance committees of several boards. She has partnered with C-Level teams as a consultant and coach, keynoted on leadership, culture, and sales in 45 states and 15 countries, and has been a guest on numerous podcasts.

Throughout her career, Jennifer has also led global operations, learning and development, ESG, change management, and multiple sales teams while with Accenture, DaVita, and FranklinCovey. She has served as chief operations officer, chief learning officer, and vice president of wisdom.

Highlights

Proud owner of an extensive Elvis memorabilia collection

Enjoys skiing, hiking, gardening, and playing board games with her family

Honored as an Outstanding Woman in Business by the Denver Business Journal and named a Titan 100

Education & Certifications

- M.S. Organizational Communication, Purdue University
- B.S. Organizational Communication, University of Utah
- UC Berkeley Exec Ed: Artificial Intelligence: Business Strategies and Applications
- Harvard Business School Exec Ed: Authentic Leadership
- Coach U Core Essentials Graduate